Response to January 2005 Office Action

March 30, 2005 (page 1 of 2)

Mailed and Faxed to 703-872-9306, with cover page, all claims with No. 25 Amended

Claim Number 25 Rejection – 35 USC Section 112 ~ My Additional Response

In addition to my previous response regarding claims 23-25, I have amended claim number 25 as follows and I have attached a separate reprint of all the claims:

25. (Amended) Method for integrating, in whole or in part, the functional means, or method of integrating physical display functions related to the various versions of the powered interactive physical display apparatus, as claimed and suggested herein, with distinct devices and/or distinct programming, the method comprising the following steps:

a) selecting one or more integration candidate devices and products from the following general categories:

medical devices, therapy devices, rehabilitation devices, monitoring devices, chiropractic devices, massage devices, exercise devices, phones, pagers, Internet access devices, electronic stimulation devices, medicine and reward vaults, entertainment devices, thermal therapy devices, virtual reality systems, single and multi-player game devices, gambling devices, computer systems, exercise devices, sleep enhancing devices, magnetic, light, radio frequency and infrared treatment and therapy devices, vital signs and breathing monitoring, alarm devices, automotive systems and devices, sporting devices, contest related devices, devices, toys, dolls, stuffed animals and characters, eldercare, childcare devices, etc.;

- b) designing a suitable integration plan for the device(s) so selected;
- c) completing the integration, testing and modifying and retesting as required.

I hope that this amendment to claim 25 is adequate. I remain willing to modify my claims, specification and/or abstract if necessary.

Very sincerely and respectfully yours,

Craig L. Linden
